MORRIS LOSES FIGHT
BY FOULING FULTON

Canton, O., Sept. 4.—Fred Fulton and Carl Morris put on their third successive boxing fiasco in the ball park at Meyer's Lake here Labor Day. Some 6,000 gents and ladies paid around $18,000 to watch these heavyweight warriors fight for a chance to meet Jess Willard. They saw Morris rightly disqualified in the sixth round by Referee Matt Hinkel for fighting with his head instead of his hands.

Oklahoma Carl resembled a billy goat more than a fighter in action and was booted and hissed out of the ring after giving as foul an exhibition of scrapping as ever was seen in a ring. While walking through the angry crowd to his dressing room after it was over he knocked down a fan who called him a foul battler. The fan picked up a chair and flamed Carl over the shoulders with it. The punch Morris slipped over on the spectator was the only good one he landed during the afternoon. Carl might make a good collar and elbow wrestler, but as a fighter he's a joke.

OTTAWA MAN WINS
DE PUE WATER EVENTS

Arthur J. Johnson, well known Ottawa man, who is now a member of the Sixth Illinois Infantry, yesterday was the shining light at the De Pue water regatta. Mr. Johnson captured the 100 and 1,000 yard dashes from large fields in which were represented many of the state's best swimmers.

In the hundred yard test he crossed the line ten yards ahead of Gerald Hoar, of La Salle and Zinner, of Peoria. O'Keefe, of Spring Valley, and Brisk, of Peoria, were trailers in the thousand yard match.

Miss Walther, of Peoria, was the stellar light in the ladies' event. She won both the thousand and hundred yard contests from Miss Brackman, also of Peoria.

Johnson repeated his performance of a year ago by taking the two major aquatic events. A large crowd witnessed the water races and applauded the Ottawa boy's prowess.

FALL RIVER FARM
BRINGS HIGH PRICE

A high record price for Fall River farm land was set today when the Richards farm of 162 acres was sold to James Graham, the largest land owner in Grand Rapids township, for $28,148. This was at the rate of $225 per acre. This is the highest price paid for Fall River farm land. The farm is located six miles southeast of Ottawa.

STREATOR THANKS
OTTAWA FIREMEN

That Ottawa men performed a valuable service in responding to Streator's call for aid, is shown in the Streator Free Press, which in speaking of the local firemen says:

"The city of Ottawa is a friend in need and their call to lend aid was greatly appreciated by the entire city. The Ottawa fire department immediately started for this city with their fire engine, and bringing all the hose they could possibly spare. A company of firemen accompanied and the machine was delayed at Grand tidge on account of a break down. They arrived in this city a short time after the fire was under control and assisted for a time.

"The county seat fire department has one man who is a natural born fire fighter, and his work in this city yesterday brought worthy comment from Mayor Essington and the entire local fire department. The fellow is L. A. Stevenson, second assistant chief of the Ottawa department. Mr. Stevenson was passing thru the city yesterday on his way to Pontiac and he decided to pay the local firemen a friendly call. He was just arriving at the fire department when the alarm came in. He followed the firemen to the fire like a soldier when the bugle blows for 'chow' and he pitched in and worked with all his might. He was not dressed in a fireman's uniform—he didn't stop. His clothes were ruined and it is very probable that the city will present him with a new suit of clothes.

"Joseph Boiessein, chief of the Ottawa fire department visited this city yesterday afternoon and offered assistance wherever possible. The county seat responded nobly and their attitude has won the favorable comment of the entire community."

FREAK FOG SWEEPS
OVER LOCAL STREETS

A strange weather phenomenon was noticed by the people on Columbus street at noon yesterday. A dense fog forming on the Illinois river followed the course of the Fox river down the uptown streets. This fog was so heavy it was almost impossible to see across the streets, and traveled as fast as an automobile leaving a dense curtain in its wake and its course was watched with apparent interest by many people on the street at that time. Inside of fifteen minutes this freak fog had risen leaving the air perfectly clear.

107 DIE IN RAID
OVER ENGLISH COAST

London, Sept. 4.—One hundred and seven sailors were killed and 86 injured in the German's air raid over the Sheerness and Chatham areas last night. It was officially announced today.

In addition one civilian was killed and six others injured.

Last night's raid was the second within twenty-four hours and was much more disastrous than the preceding one.

According to an earlier announcement the hostile air craft crossed the British coast shortly before midnight. Numerous high powered bombs were thrown down. British airmen were on the alert, however, and no sooner was the alarm given than a big armada of British battle planes went up to attack the invaders and pursue them on their return across the North Sea.

There are vast military and naval establishments at both Sheerness and Chatham. The naval station at Sheerness is one of the most important in England and in addition there is a big arsenal there. There are huge docks at Chatham as well as naval and military works and infantry, marine and engineer barracks.

LABOR DAY PARADE
BLOCKED BY RAIN

They overlooked the rain. Their opinion of the streets was well founded, the principal kicks being left to the homefolks to make—and believe us, they made 'em.

Foresight in having prepared an abundance of rest rooms for ladies was a very laudable feature of the day. Women who otherwise would have had to seek shelter, had comfortable places where they could hide away the rainy hours in the very heart of the city.

ATHLETIC CONTESTS.

Athletic events scheduled for the afternoon were conducted without a hitch and evoked great quantities of interest from the crowds. The pie-eating contest and greased pole struggle were the stellar attractions of the afternoon, keeping the spectators in a constant uproar from the time the entries "got away," until a victor was decided.

The following won the awards in the various events:

Free-for-All Dash (100 yards)—First prize $2.00, Leo Duffy, second prize $1.00, Samuel Moore.

Sack Race—First prize, $3.00, Raymond Kelly, second prize, $2.00, Edw. Claus.

Greased Pole—Prize, $2.00, winner Paul Wester.

Pie-Eating Contest—First prize, $1.00, Fred Katsonis; second prize $50c, Harold Flynn.
